TARIFF INQUIRY. ON THE LAND.

OIL INDUSTRY IN AUSTRALIA.

DUTY ON BOOTS AND SHOES.

The plea for the primary producer put forward in the letter of the president of the Farmers' Association, which was published in yesterday's issue, has been the subject of a tariff inquiry. No one will dispute the fact that the oil industry is dependent upon the farmers, and that the prosperity and progress of the country is dependent upon the oil industry. It is a modern truth that the oil industry is the backbone of the country, and that the oil industry is the backbone of the country.

The commission concluded taking evidence in respect to the applications of the Commonwealth Oil Corporation and British-Australian Oil Company for a bounty of 20 per cent of the cost of oil extracted from shale.

James Hardie, who as mining superintendent was in the employ of applicants, said he estimated the cost of producing a gallon of shale oil at the rate of 4s. 6d. The selling price he estimated would be 4s. 6d. In his opinion, the corporation would succeed with three returns working.

Mr. Lockyer: Have you observed in this morning's paper that a rival company has reduced its selling price of kerosene by a penny a gallon?

Witness: That means ruinous competition, and the other fellow must be losing money in order to sell at that price.

Mr. Lockyer: Your corporation has made no provision whatever for this sort of competition?

Witness: If the corporation can call up the sum of £250,000 there will be something left for this sort of thing.

The Chairman: This means that the Treasury would find two-thirds of your costs of production of shale oil.

Witness: As it stands, the corporation, if it started with a clean slate, would not have much for working capital. Speaking of the corporation's field, witness said there are 10 million tons of shale available, and there should be an average yield of 10 per cent of a good deal over 100 gallons of shale oil.

Mr. Lockyer: When the cost of shale is 4s. 6d. a ton, a yield of nothing less than 80 gallons can be made to 100.

Witness: That is so.

The Chairman: It is now remodeling the corporation's returns, said the kerosene corporation produced in the past for the oil industry. They never experienced any difficulty in selling the kerosene produced. Witness: The Commission privately with the present price being paid for crude oil extracted from shale.

Mr. R. Gray, general manager of the British-Australian Oil Company, Ltd., stated that both in regard to quality and quantity, the products of shale oil produced locally could be sold. Witness asked to see the price at which the previous witness said crude oil was being sold, but the chairman, Mr. Piddington, refused his request.

Where private interests were at stake, Mr. Piddington said these interests would be protected by the Commission. Witness added that crude oil was being imported here at three pence a gallon.

The Chairman: That is your opinion.

Witness: Yes. That rate is only 2 pence. George Henry Watson, sales manager of the British-Australian Oil Company, Ltd., said that owing to the company's policy of a one-bench basis being so limited, they were forced to cancel orders. The rates received for their oil were satisfactory, and they regarded the market's demand with confidence.

The company was selling kerosene at a lower rate than competitors, who were importing the article, the basis of profit being taken on the cost of the oil. Another witness, Mr. Piddington, said the company was about to be constructed, and there was, he felt sure, a market large enough to absorb the production of the United Kingdom.

Regarding the rate paid by the naval authorities for various oils, witness said he would be pleased to do the business. He said the oil was not large enough under present working conditions to serve the navy's requirements.

Mr. Piddington said the oil was not large enough under present working conditions to serve the navy's requirements.

KING'S MESSAGE.
NEW GOVERNOR-GENERAL
ARRIVES.

FREMANTLE, Tuesday.—The Governor-General-elect, Sir John Murray Ferguson, accompanied by Lady H. Murray Ferguson and staff, arrived by the S.S. Otway to-day. They were met on the wharf by the Mayor and councillors of Fremantle, the Mayor (Mr. Scaddan), the Mayor-elect (Mr. C. J. Brown), the Mayor-elect's A.M.C., and representatives of the local police forces. After being tendered a cordial welcome by the Mayor, the party to be met by special train to Perth. Mr. Ronald and Lady Helen are looking forward to their arrival in Melbourne, where they are to be sworn in. It was intended that Ronald should be sworn in at Adelaide during his passage through the Radd. He received a notification that this arrangement had been altered. The health of Lady Helen has been excellent, although she is still feeling the effects of the weather which was experienced two days prior to her arrival at Fremantle.

"This being the first time that I have set foot on Australian soil, I would like, with a further delay, to deliver a message entrusted to me by his Gracious Majesty, which the gentlemen of the press can bring home to me."

...the Australian people. As my audience in London, before leaving, the King requested me to renew his Majesty's assurance to his people in Australia of his vivid and abiding recollection of both his visits to the southern dominions—the first during the period of his sea service, the second when he returned, accompanied by her Majesty, to perform the memorable ceremony of opening the first Commonwealth Parliament. The King directed me further to express his deep and constant solicitude for the progress and the content and happiness of its people. The only thing to be added to that glorious heritage, I would venture to assert the Deputy Prime Minister, is the Deputy Prime Minister's personal conviction that nothing could be more real and active than the care and attention bestowed by the King upon the affairs of Australia, and the interest felt by His Majesty in this great Commonwealth. It is to remain, therefore, that under his Majesty's rule, that of King Edward and Queen Elizabeth, the Crown, in the words of the

Sir Ronald is singularly free and unconcerned in his manner, and frequently during this interview he plied the pressman with questions regarding Australian affairs. He has been anxious to know when the first Australian

"You know," he said, "I have quite a number of friends in Australia, and a very good friend of mine was once Governor of Victoria. I refer, of course, to Sir Thomas Mitchell, and I used to hear a good deal about Australian affairs from him. I might mention that I have also made a close study of the Commonwealth Constitution. You know I am a firm believer in Home Rule all over the world."

and it was with a view to ascertaining what particular Constitution amongst the Dominions was best suited for a Federal scheme for the old country that I studied the Australian system. I am hopeful that eventually a scheme, embodying Home Rule for Scotland, Ireland, and probably Wales will be adopted. Sir Ronald has been greatly interested in the Commonwealth system of compulsory service, which he regards as an excellent one. I am somewhat doubtful," he said, "whether it could at present be applied with any great success."

measure of success in the old country, however. It would be a splendid thing for her defence, but the difficulty is that it might be with the recruiting of our forces for several overseas. You see, we have to recruit between 30,000 and 40,000 men every year overseas, and a compulsory system might somewhat interfere with this work. Out here, of course, the conditions are different.

"I have been much interested in your development. It is an excellent idea to have a fleet unit of your own. It gives the people the various Dominions much greater personal interest in the navy, and one result will be that you will have more men from the Dominions' service with the fleet. Of course some people might favour a system of contributions towards the maintenance of another fleet, but I consider the scheme adopted by Australia is the more satisfactory. Money may be very valuable, but men are more valuable than money. I think that the ultimate line that the other Dominions will take up is the line taken up by Australia.

“Yes,” he replied, laughingly. “we have every intention of staying as long as we can. It is no use coming out such a great distance unless one has made up his mind to stay.”

Throughout the voyage Sir Ronald was recipient of numerous wireless messages from Australians who were proceeding homeward, and when in the vicinity of Colombo he received a congratulatory message from a

On his arrival at Perth his Excellency accorded a most enthusiastic reception to the Mayor and citizens at the Central Station.

His Excellency thanked the Mayor and citizens at Perth on behalf of himself and the Governor for the cordiality of their welcome. He said he was reminded by the reception of many happy memories of his former visits to Perth.

Only a few months ago Lady Helen had resigned from a school board, and he had himself resigned from the town council of his own town, Kirkcaldy, and the magnificent chain of the Mayor had reminded him of his own lost dignity. (Laughter.) As the Mayor said, his stay was necessarily short, one, but he hoped soon to return to his estate and his capital. He hoped to have time and opportunity to do this in the future; and moreover, it was necessary for him to fulfil his Majesty's directions to report to him on the progress of the woolsamwealth. (Applause.) It was

The welcome was followed by the green and white flag of the Perth Caledonian Society and "bridesmaids" at the Palace Hotel. Mr. William Macfarlane, chief of the Perth Caledonian Society, presided, and had on his right the Sir James Macdonald, Governor, Sir Harry Barron, and on his

Responding to the toast of his health, McDonald said a Scotsman could have no more fortunate entry to a new country than through the portals of the Caledonian Society. (Heard near.) That applied as well to the industrial Governor-General as to a man in high political positions, and offices in high place would seem to have been recovered by precedence over the world for Scotsmen. (Laughter.) It is doubtless because in addition to his ability and their pertinacity Scotsmen are linked together with Freemasonry. Congratulations he had received from the appointment came from the High

...society of Sydney, and all the voyage he had been welcomed by Marconigrams, until from Robert to Rangoon there was the one tale of greeting to himself and to his wife for their people in these new lands. (Hear, hear.)
He knew of nothing more inspiring or more encouraging on the threshold of his new undertaking than the welcome he had received from Australia. This great State of Western Australia had tremendous possibilities, a link by rail with the East, and, as he hoped this would be in time to enable him

CHAMPIONSHIP TENNIS.

OPEN TOURNAMENT.

Some good contests were witnessed in the championship doubles and challenge pairs yesterday. The best of the day was given by between A. B. Jones and G. W. Wright, who were opposed by the Todd brothers, who won in four sets. The brothers started well, taking the first set; but afterwards Wright, who has been unwell, and was consequently short of practice, was not up to the mark. The experience and tactics of our best pair was just sufficient to pull them through the remaining sets. The Andersons were very easily against Hicks and Bowker; Pockley and Clark, Marsh and Bayers, both won in straight sets. Bayers is improving, although he is very short of condition.

The challenge pairs an excellent match was seen between Donald Patterson and Miss Schlegler, of Victoria, against C. Todd and Miss Campbell. The former pair just won by 10-8, 2-6, 8-6, and 6-4.

In sets. Doyle and Miss S. George, a good win from Mr. Fuller and Miss Cozens. Mrs. Fuller, however, slightly sprained foot, and consequently was compelled to retire. Mrs. Todd and Mr. Todd were too consistent for Mrs. Rowe and Miss Browning.

Some good matches took place in the open singles, and as the best players were departed from the city, the opportunity was given to many young and improving men, who refrain from taking part in the single-championship.

In the hands, the Peach brothers continue to do well, and one notices amongst the remaining pairs, that the Todd brothers, Singles and Doubles, some players who show promise.

Probably the Munro boys playing in the school championship excite as much interest as any of the competitors. Although very young, they play back and forth almost equally well; and even the high-bouncing ball, they certainly handle with great skill.

Each day, as the weaker players play, the contests become more interesting. The following are the results:-

All-Comers' Singles. 1. A. B. Jones vs. G. W. Wright, 6-2, 6-4, 6-2, 6-4. 2. A. B. Jones vs. G. W. Wright, 6-2, 6-4, 6-2, 6-4.

THERE'S A NEW
AT THE GROCERY

"GOOD LUCK"

It is a new "Arnott's" called "Good Luck," made in the shape of a horse's head.

It contains all the essential to life and the building of bone

The finest dairy butter its manufacture—it is sweetened—crisp when the mouth, and the gradations gradually most agreeably manna palate.

Above all, there is a distinctive flavor in Biscuits—a pure, butter which combines to the taste of the Baker's art.
